

Hollyhock House in Los Angeles declared UNESCO World Heritage Site

 theindependentbd.com/post/208158

Wednesday 7 August 2019 ,

theindependent

theindependent

Wednesday 7 August 2019 ,

Latest News

- 6 more die as dengue rage continues
- Expert says how to deal with dengue outbreak
- Philippines declares dengue outbreak a national epidemic
- HC asks Fakhru, 3 others to surrender within 6 weeks
- Hearing on Minni's bail plea deferred

20 July, 2019 11:45:35 AM / LAST MODIFIED: 20 July, 2019 11:46:33 AM

Independent Online Desk

Hollyhock House - Library Wide. Photo: Deccan Chronicle/ File

Frank Lloyd Wright's Hollyhock House, an iconic architectural masterpiece in the heart of Barnsdall Park in the East Hollywood district of Los Angeles was added to the UNESCO World Heritage List. The first Los Angeles landmark to be designated a World Heritage Site; Hollyhock House is part of a UNESCO group officially titled the 20th-Century Architecture of Frank Lloyd Wright, which includes eight major works spanning 50 years of the famed architect's career.

Oil heiress Aline Barnsdall commissioned the house as the centrepiece of a cultural arts complex on Olive Hill, which was to include a major theatre, cinema, artist residencies, and commercial shops. For Hollyhock House, her personal residence, Barnsdall asked Wright to incorporate her favourite flower, the hollyhock, into the design. In 1927, Barnsdall donated the house and the surrounding 12 acres (now Barnsdall Park) to the City of Los Angeles. Today, Hollyhock House is owned and operated by the Department of Cultural Affairs (DCA).

The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO) has one of the world's most popular cultural heritage programs, and it has honoured numerous other famous sites like the Statue of Liberty, the Great Wall of China, and the city of Venice, Italy by designating them World Heritage Sites. World Heritage Sites are landmarks or areas having cultural, historical, scientific or another form of significance, and are legally protected by international treaties. The sites are judged important to the collective interests of humanity.

In addition to the UNESCO recognition, Hollyhock House was designated Los Angeles Historic-Cultural Monument #12 in 1963, added to the National Register of Historic Places in 1971, and designated a National Historic Landmark in 2007.

This historic home, completely restored in 2015, in Los Feliz will continue its preservation efforts with regular tours and wine tastings every Friday night throughout the summer.

Source: Deccan Chronicle

BK

More Travel & Tourism Stories

If you are fond of offbeat foreign destinations that give you a chance to discover the cultural and socio-economical side closely, then think beyond the obvious and explore the south-western Switzerland that borders France. While...

Austrian town of 800 receives 1 mn tourists annually

Spectacle of collapsing iceberg boosts tourism in Canada

Selfie museum in Budapest hits social-media

Exploring Florence

Switzerland the world's most-innovative in latest rankings

Iceland: Europe's most expensive destination

theindependent

Copyright © All right reserved.

Editor : M. Shamsur Rahman

Published by the Editor on behalf of Independent Publications Limited at Media Printers,
446/H, Tejgaon I/A, Dhaka-1215.

Editorial, News & Commercial Offices : Beximco Media Complex, 149-150 Tejgaon I/A, Dhaka-1208, Bangladesh. GPO Box No. 934, Dhaka-1000.

Editor : M. Shamsur Rahman

Published by the Editor on behalf of Independent Publications Limited at Media Printers, 446/H, Tejgaon I/A, Dhaka-1215.

Editorial, News & Commercial Offices : Beximco Media Complex, 149-150 Tejgaon I/A, Dhaka-1208, Bangladesh. GPO Box No. 934, Dhaka-1000.

| The Independent, Bangladesh

