City of Los Angeles
Department of Cultural Affairs
Announces
Public Programmers and Sites
for
CURRENT:LA FOOD
Second Iteration of LA's Public Art Triennial

CURRENT:LA Food Features Free Public Programs Across the City

Los Angeles – The City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs (DCA) is pleased to announce the public programmers and sites for the second iteration of its citywide Public Art Triennial, CURRENT:LA FOOD, taking place October 5 through November 3, 2019 in each of the City's 15 Council Districts. The month-long exhibition will focus on the topic of food.

CURRENT:LA FOOD will present art projects by 15 local, national, and international artists and artists teams who are taking on the global issue of food to highlight and encourage discussion on a range of topics such as: food deserts, urban agriculture, food distribution systems, and food equity. Commissioning art installations, performances, and events in public parks, CURRENT:LA FOOD aims to engage visitors in discussions that affects Los Angeles residents as well as the broader global community through the exploration of art.

DCA is excited to announce that in addition to the 15 artists and artists teams commissioned to create temporary public art projects for CURRENT:LA FOOD, the agency also commissioned a set of public programs to deepen the visitor experience and engage the community. These free public programs feature cultural events ranging from a vegan food experience to bread workshops rooted in South American, Middle Eastern, and African traditions. Other featured events include: a Foodscapes Festival: Art, Cultural, and Ecological Histories; solar cooking workshops; The Art of Food: A Recipe for Community; a sound performance with tea service; a Sustainable Urban Food Systems Summit; Rainbow Feast; a Muscle House Cookbook performance series; and a Family + Food = Love: A Parent Appreciation Picnic; among others.

The public programmers commissioned for CURRENT:LA FOOD are:

Across Our Kitchen Tables

Babsi Loisch

Bed & Breakfast

Center for the Arts Eagle Rock

Christopher Reynolds

The Golden Dome

Human Resources LA

About CURRENT:LA

CURRENT:LA puts a new spin on traditional international triennials by democratizing the way people access art. The initiative shifts art away from the museum environment and places temporary public art projects and public programs in the neighborhoods of Los Angeles where residents and visitors live, work, and play.

CURRENT:LA uses contemporary art as a way to deepen connections on issues affecting Los Angeles and other global cities to inspire civic discourse on those particular issues.

CURRENT:LA is funded by the City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs. For more information about CURRENT:LA FOOD, please visit currentla.org or follow CURRENT:LA on Facebook, Instagram @current_la, and Twitter @current_la.

About CURRENT:LA FOOD

Food culture is more diverse today, offering more possibilities for exploration than ever before. From modern scientific experiments to the revival of local ethnic traditions, these developments are cause for wonder and celebration. And yet, we have food that is increasingly unhealthy and is unjustly distributed, while hunger and malnutrition continue to plague demographics around the world. The contributing artists for CURRENT:LA FOOD will highlight the advances — as well as the challenges — we face as producers and consumers.

Through major public art commissions and public programs with local, international, and multigenerational artists, CURRENT:LA FOOD will explore the multiplicity of food. Placement of the CURRENT:LA FOOD projects within LA's burgeoning public transit infrastructure will allow for greater exploration and access, bringing these projects directly to residents and visitors throughout the city. Through an intricate partnership between artists and community members, CURRENT:LA FOOD will shed new light on the precarious balance between pleasure and peril found in food today, and the many ways food gives expression to social and political life.

About the City of Los Angeles Department of Cultural Affairs (DCA)

As a leading, progressive arts and cultural agency, DCA empowers Los Angeles's vibrant communities by supporting and providing access to quality visual, literary, musical, performing, and educational arts programming; managing vital cultural centers; preserving historic sites; creating public art; and funding services provided by arts organizations and individual artists.

Formed in 1925, DCA promotes arts and culture as a way to ignite a powerful dialogue, engage LA's residents and visitors, and ensure LA's varied cultures are recognized, acknowledged, and experienced. DCA's mission is to strengthen the quality of life in Los Angeles by stimulating and supporting arts and cultural activities, ensuring public access to the arts for residents and visitors alike.

DCA advances the social and economic impact of arts and culture through grant-making, public art, community arts, performing arts, and strategic marketing, development, design, and digital research. DCA creates and supports arts programming, maximizing relationships with other city agencies, artists, and arts and cultural nonprofit organizations to provide excellent service in neighborhoods throughout Los Angeles.
